VILLA IS LOCATED; REPORT

Bandit and 1,100 Men Said to Be on Ranch Near Parral; General Pershing Is to Investigate

Laredo, Texas, May 13.—Mexican bandits today raided the farm of Ambrose Johnson on the American side of the Rio Grande, about 25 miles northwest of Laredo, after setting fire to a schoolhouse at Leyendecker. Johnson discovered the bandits driving away his horses, and opened fire with a rifle. The bandits fled, crossing the river into Mexico.

By International News Service.

Field Headquarters Punitive Expedition, near Nampiqui, via Radio to Columbus, May 13.—The report reached General Pershing here today that Villa, with 1,100 men, is at a ranch near Corralitos. His command, according to reports, is made up of Sonora bandits with a sprinkling of followers he has succeeded in gathering under his banner during his flight before the American pursuers.

General Pershing was not inclined to place much credence in the report and there will be no redistribution of his forces because of it. He will investigate it, however.

The Corralitos referred to in the above dispatch is in the southwestern part of Chihuahua, about twenty-five miles west of Parral and about the same distance from the Cuernavaca border. It is on the National Highway of Mexico. There is a good force of Carranza soldiers at Parral. It was here that Luis Herrera Carrasquilla attacked American forces some days ago.

Put Cyanide in Wells Near Pershing's Army

By International News Service.

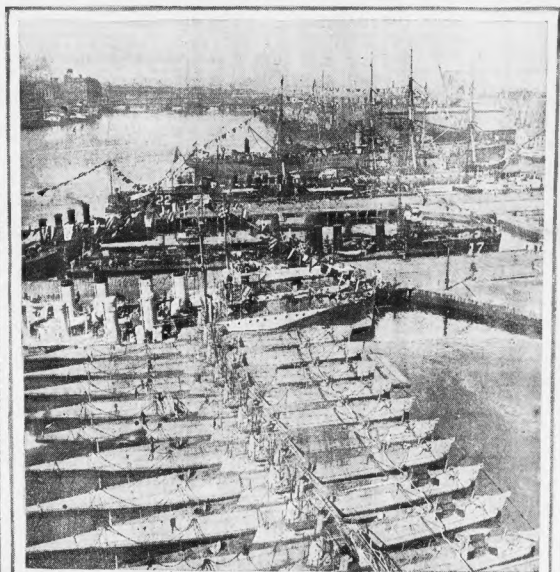

El Paso, May 13.—Cyanide of potassium and powdered glass have been thrown into water holes and along the streams of the farthest front of the Pershing column, according to experiences developed at the Fort Bliss hospital.

A number of soldiers returning from south of Casas Grandes are suffering at the post hospital with all the symptoms of cyanide poisoning, including heart failure and lung failure. That they have not died is believed to be due to the fact that they were not given the antidote.

Big Throng Invades Navy Yard for 'Preparedness' Celebration

Panoramic view today of a section of the Charlestown Navy Yard, gay with colors fluttering from Uncle Sam's warships. In the foreground are seen submarines ready for a plunge into the sea to attack an imaginary enemy. Among the other decorated ships is "Old Ironsides," an historic reminder that the war machines of the sea have changed.

GOVERNOR SIGNS 14-DAY MILITIA TOUR BILL

Governor McCall has signed the bill increasing the militia tours of duty from seven to fourteen days.

Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole, chief of the Massachusetts militia, when informed of the Governor's action, described the bill as "the longest stop taken in the interest of militia efficiency since the Dick bill of 1903."

Although this extension of the tour of duty will entail an additional expense of about $100,000 for the State, many locations and buildings or accommodations, including the Boston Chamber of Commerce, gave it enthusiastic support.

The claim was made that the seven-day tour of duty is not of sufficient duration to benefit the militiamen.

80,000 HOMES RUINED IN PRUSSIA

Berlin, May 13.—The German News Agency, quoting a Prussian weekly, states that during the second Russian invasion of the Province the Russians carried off 11,000 old men and women and children.

The fate of most of them is unknown. Continuing the article, it says: "It is impossible to say how many women were attacked. Eighty thousand homes were looted and destroyed. Among those carried away by the Russians were six clergymen, with their families. One of them was an old man, seventy years of age. His wife and children were completely destroyed. Among which was two of high artistic value. Twenty-six restorers and thirteen other churches were damaged."

Committee Ends Deadlock of Two Weeks by an Agreement on a Measure for Country's Defence

By International News Service.

Washington, May 13.—The Senate and House conferees reached a definite agreement on the Army bill today, breaking the two weeks' deadlock over the measures. The agreement provides:

A standing army totaling 206,000 men, of whom 100,000 will be federalized national guard of 425,000 men. Elimination of the Federal volunteer army plan.

A seven-year enlistment term in the regular army.

Military training camps organized on the Plattburgh plan.

CAPTURE HUSBAND OF AMERICAN GIRL

London, May 13.—Colonel the Hon. Charles John Coventry, previously reported missing, it is now announced, is a prisoner at Damascus with twenty officers and 230 men of the Worcestershire Regiment. They were captured by the Turks at El-Gasser Sunday.

Colonel Coventry is the second son of the Earl of Coventry. He married Lady Whitehouse of Newport, R. I., in 1906.

SENDS $50 TO WIFE OF IRISH MARTYR

Baltimore, May 13.—Michael Holding of this city sent a check for $50 to the former Grace Clifford, wife of the Earl of Coventry, who was one of the Irish revolution men captured by the British authorities.

There was no hope for the life of the man she loved, she went to the prison with a priest, and there the husband ceremony was performed.

BRITISH CRISIS DUBLIN EXECUTIONS

Against the British government include the following:

- 1-The execution of Connolly and McMeekin, because the death penalties inflicted on six men.
- 2-The fact that they had to kill Connolly in order to kill him.
- 3-The news of the last two executions after Premier Asquith's conciliatory speech, announcing that there would be no more executions until after the Parliament.
- 4-The debate on the Dublin section.
- 5-The illegal execution of F. Sheehy Skeffington, who was shot by a British officer without consulting the military authorities.
- 6-John Dillon's "Act of blood" speech in the House of Commons.

There is a complete unanimity of opinion here that the British government is faced with a very serious situation. The British government is being attacked by the Irish people, and the British government is being attacked by the Irish people. The British government is being attacked by the Irish people, and the British government is being attacked by the Irish people.

MANLY SINGING.

It is reported that on last Thursday morning the Dublin Municipal Council have disappeared after the recent battle. They may have been killed in the fighting, shot or decapitated. On some of the streets, there is a manly singing. It is reported that the British government is being attacked by the Irish people, and the British government is being attacked by the Irish people.

HARD FIGHTING AT VERDON

The French communiqué today reported severe fighting along the Verdun front in the night. French gunners bombarded German positions at Hill 287 (just west of Hill 301). Then French troops attacked and, according to the Paris statement, made gains. The Germans attacked at Douaumont and Thiaumont Farm, east of the Meuse. The Douaumont attack broke down, the French statement says.

WAR SUMMARY

The German communiqué agrees with the French that there was violent conflict along the Verdun front, but declares that the French attacks failed.

The feature of the preceding communiques was the report of a new German offensive against the British front at Hulluch, three miles north of Lens. The British report admitted the Germans took 500 yards of trenches, but claimed recapture of part of them by counter-attack. But Berlin described the British counter as "feeble."

Athens hears that 36,000 Bulgarians, with Austro-German supports, are on the move southward in the direction of Anglo-French positions at Salonica.

The Russian force which is hacking away at the Turks in Armenia is reported by Petrograd as making "further progress" westward, near Aschak. This town is about thirty miles southwest of Erzerum. The Russians also claim repulse of a Turkish attack in the direction of Bagdad. Constantinople, however, says that a Russian force on the Caucasus front is having a hard time to maintain itself and is being driven back eastward.

Infantry fighting continues along the Russian front in the Dvinsk and Jacobstadt sectors. Italy reports the repulse of two Austrian attempts to recapture lost ground.

More than 250 young people carrying flowers and balloons with sunny bows left the headquarters of the Irish revolution in Dublin today, and were distributed among the Irish revolutionaries in the city. The young people were distributed among the Irish revolutionaries in the city.

Why Stenographers Make Good Wives

By International News Service.

Washington, May 13.—Secretary of State Lansing declares that no further representations will be sent to Great Britain at present for the relief of the British blockade.

The decision of the department is based on the so-called "contingent clause" of the German submarine note.

By some this clause has been interpreted to mean that the maintenance of the newly-announced submarine policy is contingent upon the United States gaining concessions from Great Britain in the operation of its blockade of Germany.

LANSING MAKES STATEMENT.

Secretary Lansing authorized this statement:

In view of the apparent conditions contained in the German note it is very difficult to proceed at the present time with reference to England.

The inference generally drawn from this statement is that the United States could not now proceed against Great Britain without appearing to be forced into that course by Germany.

It was said that no action against England will be taken until the conditions against Germany are removed. It was explained that this might be brought about by the German government, or by waiting a sufficient length of time to see whether the German concessions are actually conditions.

DIFFER WITH LANSING.

It was apparent that administration officials were not united in support of the view expressed by Secretary Lansing, which is said to be the President's position.

There was also criticism of the State Department's action in instructing Ambassadors to make inquiries to determine whether the conditions of the submarine note attacked the Sussex had been adequately met.

It was believed unnecessary irritation might be caused in London by the action taken by the State Department. It was believed that the action taken by the State Department might be interpreted as a sign of weakness.

HAVE ANSWER TO LANSING.

When the German government received this note as accepting the submarine concessions, public and press comment in Germany and in Berlin to the note to the British blockade were not intended to be conditions of the United States in its reply "look for granted" that Germany had intended to give such conditions.

The fact that this question is raised now, some officials felt, may encourage the German government to unnecessarily antagonizing Germany at this time.

It was believed that the German government had made directly to the German government.

KAISERIN ANSWERS ENGLISH APPEAL.

London, April 12.—An Englishwoman who could hear no news of her son, an officer at the front, who had been taken prisoner, wrote at length to the Kaiserin and begged her, as a mother of a soldier son herself, to help her in her trouble.

The Kaiserin, it is stated, took great pains to trace the whereabouts of the man, and actually succeeded in locating him. Moreover, she wrote a letter to the Englishwoman, telling her that her son, like so many other soldiers, was in the front.

Old Eli Team Favored Fine Duel in Half-Mile

NOT in years has so much interest been shown between the track teams representing Harvard and Yale as happened today, the occasion of the twenty-third renewal of track and field hostilities between these two noted institutions.

With thirteen events on the program there still, of course, is much to interest the fan, but one number alone will well worth journeying some distance to see.

That event is the half-mile run in which "Bill" Ringham, Harvard's track captain, field marshal and cheer leader, faces the team of Eli mile-distance men. In Johnny Overton alone he faces opposition formidable enough for almost any man to contend with, but, in addition, Johnny Mack, Yale track and field member, stands forth three or four more Elians good enough to start in any mile-distance classic.

Today all Harvard confidently expects a win for Ringham, and about the place, today, comes through as a sprinter, his main will to keep in athletic action as being one of the greatest runners ever pulled on a line.

EXETER CREW IN DEBUT

Rowing is New Sport at Academy and Its 'Roosters' Await Outcome of H. S. Race Today.

THE four-oared crew representing Exeter are to meet over the special schoolboy course of three-quarters of a mile in the Charles River basin this afternoon.

Exeter has achieved fame in many branches of athletics, and has probably given to the college world more noteworthy stars than any other academy in the country. Hence its initial appearance in the rowing game will be of decided interest to the college world, as it will furnish the first link in the development of aquatic sports at Exeter.

In the few years the crew has been working on the swampy street, which course lies less than 200 yards from the school office, however, its work has been closely followed by the Exeter crew, and the last and the first crew trial came in its race with Brookline High this afternoon.

The Brookline High crew, in the strongest schoolboy form in the state, is expected to show the way to the championship of the greater Boston metropolitan Rowing Association.

Although the recent development of the Exeter crew is not known, the school officials are confident that starting point a decided victory.

There is a good reason for this. The Exeter crew, which won the Huntington School crew, defeated the Phillips Exeter crew in the championship of the state, and the Exeter crew, which won the Huntington School crew, defeated the Phillips Exeter crew in the championship of the state.

Tufts '19 Crew Tackles Tech Today

Big Jam Welcomes C. A. C. Into Field, But Show's Opener Spoiled by Poor Match.

FINANCIALLY, the opening of the Commercial A. C. Boston's new boathouse club, was an emphatic success, its none too roomy, but comfortable quarters at No. 7 Green street, in the West End, being packed to the suffocation stage.

The Tufts freshman crew will sail their first race of the season with the M. J. T. club crew on the Charles River Basin this afternoon. The Tech crew will be composed of the winners of their recent intercollegiate races. Both crews will be four-oared events, as the Tech contestants have no variety eight.

The race will be the first in which Tufts has participated in more than twenty-five years and is an attempt to revive the sport at the Melford institution. The Brown and Hiss athletes have been working out under Coach Manning on the basin for more than six weeks and, although some of the men in the boats are inexperienced, the Tufts combination are expected to give the Boston engineers a taste for supremacy.

22 FLYERS IN AUTO DERBY

By DUNCAN CURRY.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Every-thing is in readiness for the Metropolitan Trophy automobile race, which will be held at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway this afternoon.

The drivers were given their final instructions by the officials at noon yesterday, and later in the day practically all the drivers qualified the race by driving the two-mile oval at or better than a 50-mile-an-hour clip.

By far the fastest time made was by Ralph Mulford and Joseph Caruso. The last named came on first and sustained the spectators by making a lap in 1:02.5 seconds, or a shade under 117 miles an hour.

Later in the afternoon Mulford beat this record by 1.5 seconds, covering the two-mile bowl in 1:01.2 seconds, which figures out at the rate of over 112 miles an hour.

Life Is but a Screen, but the Majority of Its Spectators Can't See Through It

Old Eli Team Favored Fine Duel in Half-Mile

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

NOT in years has so much bitterness existed between the track teams representing Harvard and Yale as is apparent today; the occasion of the semi-final renewal of track and field hostilities between these two noted institutions.

With thirteen events on the program there will, of course, be much to interest the fan, but one number alone should be well worth journeying some distance to see.

That event is the half-mile run in which "Bill" Bingham, Harvard's track captain, will meet and challenge, leader, the cream of Eli's mid-distance men. In Johnny Overton alone he faces opposition formidable enough for almost any man to contend with, but, in addition, Johnny Mack, Yale track and field member, sends forth three or four more Elians good enough to start in any mid-distance classic.

Today Yale Harvard confidently expects a win for Bingham, and the Harvard leader, more than likely, as expected, his name will go down in athletic annals as being one of the greatest runners that ever pulled on a shoe.

It's up to Bingham, to win, must bring into play every bit of foot speed and endurance. In the final relay of the season, the same pair met and on that evening there was a completely different result. Bingham's superiority, however, today is another day and the result may be different.

Bitterness between Harvard and Yale has always been more or less prominent, but in track sports it is even more so. Following the track season will result that may be even more so. Following the track season will result that may be even more so.

Comparing the work of the two teams in their respective events of last Saturday, Yale must be given the big end of the argument. Of the two winners in last year's games each team has shown marked improvement to the maximum and it seems as though Harvard were to acquire two first through him. There and Stewart of Yale will be the mainstay.

Edwin Treacher, Harvard has one of the best sprinters at present running in intercollegiate sports. He is a Yale man, and as good as was evidenced a year ago when he won the 100 and was the favorite. However, Treacher has shown marked improvement to the maximum and it seems as though Harvard were to acquire two first through him. There and Stewart of Yale will be the mainstay.

WILSON, Middle and Pennycuik look to be sure players for Harvard and in the quarter. Two of the three should take first in the 200 yard dash. Wilson, Middle and Pennycuik look to be sure players for Harvard and in the quarter. Two of the three should take first in the 200 yard dash.

YALE is very likely to have three or four men in the mile and two-mile races. Overton is the favorite in the mile, but in the two-mile race, John Mack and Johnny Overton are the favorites.

YVES, Mr. Houghton, the players will be in the afternoon. TISHMER should win the sprint race, but in the 100 yard dash, Yves is the favorite.

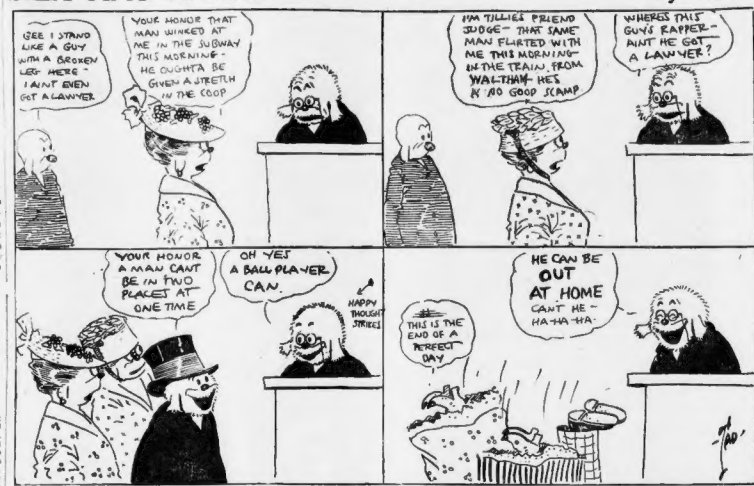

SHOULD Harvard win, many a man will be in the afternoon. TISHMER should win the sprint race, but in the 100 yard dash, Yves is the favorite.

B. C. TEAM AT HARTFORD. Boston College will participate in its first outdoor track meet at Hartford, Conn., today, when it meets Trinity College. Coach Art Hall is looking high on work of his men in the field events, rather than in short distance runs.

White Sox Battle Reds Spurt Due in Local Camp

By HEWMAN NICKERSON.

PHILADELPHIA The White Sox's championship hopes will have a little better luck against the White Sox than they had when the Cleveland Indians were here. If they don't, they will not be advancing very rapidly along the line the fans expect them to. To be sure, an even break is something, but when you figure the games they played and the team they played against, you can't but wonder what the trouble is.

The Cleveland Indians, the Sox's opponents, are a team of the Indians who much to do with the mental unrest of the Sox. The Sox have not yet become accustomed to playing in a rival uniform and, with this kind of a split, it is to do with the Sox.

Bill Teal and Gavvy, with O'Connell in the lead, are not so hot as they were. They have not yet become accustomed to playing in a rival uniform and, with this kind of a split, it is to do with the Sox.

SIDELIGHTS

By HEWMAN NICKERSON.

THE Cleveland club looked easy enough for the champions to have cleaned up, but the Sox proved a disappointment.

HERE are the White Sox gentlemen. Let them have a good chance to clean up. They have not yet become accustomed to playing in a rival uniform and, with this kind of a split, it is to do with the Sox.

THE team has been pretty early and slow on the bases, and when they have been on the bases, they have not been on the bases with much of a run or two. They have not been on the bases with much of a run or two. They have not been on the bases with much of a run or two.

WALKER IMPROVING.

Since Walker's return to the game he has steadily improved in form and is becoming quite a favorite with the fans. They admire the businesslike way in which he performs, what he has to do, and they appreciate the fact that he is up against a competitor of his own making. Walker is a good player, a hard worker and a man who looks just now as if he was in for a month-hitting streak.

EXPLORE ATTACK ON THE PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD

A vigorous arraignment of the scheme to consolidate the present Public Service Commission is contained in a statement issued today by the United Improvement Association.

The Association makes the direct accusation that the big public service corporations of the State which have gathered to the support of the reorganization bill, now in the Legislature, are determined to eliminate two or more of the Commissioners whose course has not commended them to corporations interested.

"The telephone company," the Association says, "propose to have no more investigations until there is a new Commission."

"In control of the great transportation companies in this State have little use for a Commission that refuses to allow the management of the New Haven and Boston & Maine their preference to become a stepping stone to further depredations upon both the stockholders and patrons," the Association declares.

The statement of the Association is as follows:

The United Improvement Association of Boston, representing twenty local associations and voters, calls the attention of all public spirited citizens to the dangerous situation in the Massachusetts Legislature arising from the proposed reorganization of the Public Service Commission and the more formidable attempt to reorganize the new Public Service Commission as to reduce the activity of the public in behalf of the people and, if possible, eliminate entirely two or more of the members whose course has not commended them to corporations interested.

RECENT PHONE PHONE.

A year ago the Commission, which had not already restored to the public the most largely patronized class of telephone service, which the telephone company had shortly before withdrawn, asked the Legislature for a modest appropriation to investigate the whole matter of telephone rates and service in order to act intelligently upon other petitions already before it.

The bill providing the necessary amount was favorably reported by the Legislative Committee, passed the House and passed the Senate at a third reading but by the time work of the telephone lobby was suddenly and unexpectedly killed on the passage to enactment.

This year the request was renewed and casual observers presumed that the appropriation would go through. Instead the Committee which reported last year in favor, this year came out with a unanimous report against and the report was rushed into the House and accepted and the bill again killed.

OPPOSES COMMISSION.

What is the answer? Simply this, that of the many recommendations made by Governor McCall in his inaugural the one favoring a reduction and reorganization of the Public Service Commission gave a number of the big public service corporations the opening they wanted to get rid of the present membership of the Commission and work in some less interested in the public welfare.

The telephone company was quite willing to pay over $100,000 of their own pockets for the Jackson investigation which endorsed their plan of withdrawing the most popular classes of service and which sent up their stock and dividend rate but they obviously strenuously oppose the bill which would pay $25,000 for an investigation which might confirm the claims of this Association and show the injustice of making subscribers pay more for the very increase in value which the subscribers themselves supply.

The telephone company propose to have no more investigations until there is a new Commission.

WANT TO DEST BOARD.

These in control of the great transportation companies in this State have little use for a Commission that refuses to allow the management of the New Haven and Boston & Maine under its predecessors to become a stepping stone to further depredations upon both stockholders and patrons.

All these forces have combined to reconstruct the new Commission. Men not previously noted for their tenderness to the State's interests are now grasping the saving of having three men at reduced salaries instead of five to cope with the highly paid representatives of the corporations.

Narrowly partisan Republicans are reminded that a Commission containing three Democrats is an offense in a Republican State and can well be reduced by one of two Republicans and one Democrat (particularly if all three are either good corporation men or of the mild and incompetent type).

Nothing is said, however, about retaining any of the present members even such a Republican as Joseph B. Kettner.

PUBLIC SHOULD ACT.

The question now is whether the general public has enough interest and intelligence to stand by the Commission which has stood by them or whether the men who have tried, however imperfectly and cautiously, to serve the people of Massachusetts shall be promptly retired to private life as a warning to all who might be tempted to follow their example.

Already corporation influence has secured a favorable report on the bill from one special Committee and it is now under consideration by the House Committee on Ways and Means, consisting of Representative Warner of Taunton, Collins of Amesbury, Faxon of Fitchburg, Blitzer of Arlington, Lyman of East Hampton, Hubb of West Roxbury, Young of Weston, Warner of Middlebury, Murphy of Lowell, Barry of Rockland and Fitzgerald of Boston.

Every citizen should exercise whatever influence he may have with any of these members and with his own Representative and Senator to secure rejection of the bill.

For the Association.

JOHN E. MACY, President.

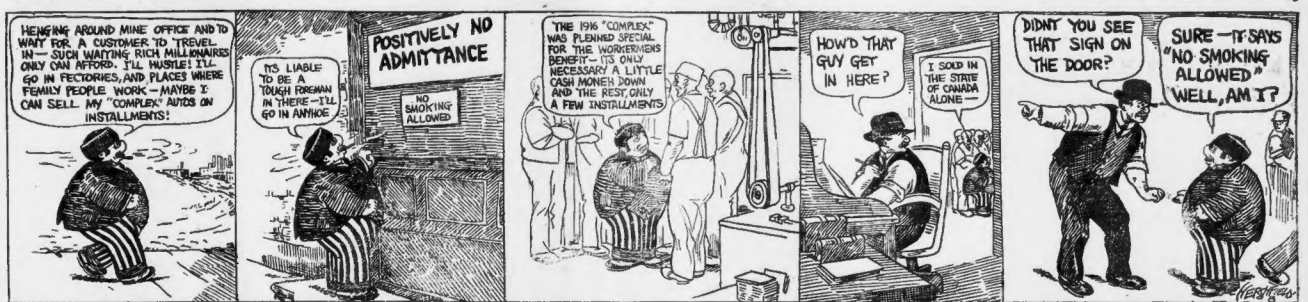

WILLIAM J. PAUL, Chairman of Legislative Committee.

GEORGE E. NICHOLSON, Executive Secretary.

Are Senators Lodge and Weeks Prepared to Put Their Party on Record Against Mr. Brandeis?

SENATOR WORKS of California was on the subcommittee which heard the charges made against Mr. Louis D. Brandeis. He voted against Mr. Brandeis, though admitting that Mr. Brandeis was a MAN WHOM THE "POOR PEOPLE" LIKED AND WHO HAD BEEN A GREAT ADVOCATE OF THE RIGHTS OF THE AVERAGE MAN. He reported that Senator Weeks and Senator Lodge, the Republican representatives of Massachusetts in the Senate, propose to vote against this Massachusetts man for the Supreme Bench.

The citizens of Massachusetts would like to know the reasons for their hostility to Mr. Brandeis. Are they prepared to make this a party question and put the Republican party on record against Mr. Brandeis?

Let them be cautious NOW how they serve the few with big campaign contributions to give as a reward, for NOW the people of this State have votes to give against MONEY. NOW our United States Senators will be elected not by the Legislature, but by all the citizens at the polls. Brandeis may be a ghost to the Republican party which will not down.

Railroad Workers Oppose Destruction of Public Service Commission

THE following very interesting letter was sent to the Committee on Ways and Means by Messrs. H. H. Wilson and H. T. Drew, representing respectively the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors:

As representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Order of Railway Conductors, we hereby register our protest against the abolition of the present Public Service Commission.

Our reasons for protesting any change in the present Commission are, that the Commission, as now made up, affords satisfactory protection to men in train service, relative to regulating safety conditions, which, of course, is a safeguard to the traveling public as well as to the employees.

We have in the past brought matters concerning our men to the attention of the Commission, and it has always acted quickly and has rendered decisions in such matters that afforded us better protection and which was always accepted as fair.

In our opinion the Commission as made up will compare favorably with like commissions in other States, and their duties are more efficiently performed, and we believe it would be detrimental to the interest of men in train service and to the traveling public if at this time the present Commission were abolished and a new one created in view of the fact that the present Commission has been in existence but three years and in that time has become familiar with the railroad conditions under which the employees work, and we believe it only fair that the present Commission should have further trial.

We believe that a commission of five members could render more efficient service than a commission of three.

Very truly yours,

H. H. WILSON (signed),
Leg. Rep. Brotherhood Locomotive Eng.

H. T. DREW (signed),
Leg. Rep. Order of Railway Conductors.

We observe that the railroad MANAGERS have NOT protested against the destruction of this commission and that the lobby, which usually represents these and their allied corporations, is very busy in the work of destruction. Those who are responsible for this scheme will regret it if they succeed.

Governor Seeks to Make Senate Keep Promises

GOVERNOR McCALL is trying very hard to make the Massachusetts Senate keep the platform promises of the Republican party on the question of reducing the hours of labor in those industries where the work is continuous during the twenty-four hours. So far he has been unsuccessful.

The Senate, that citadel of the selfish special interests, the sanctuary of the lobby, the invisible government, is proving as usual very indifferent to the public promises upon which they were elected.

The AMERICAN hopes that the Governor will not be discouraged, but will increase his effort to compel these Senators to keep their promises and to do their duty.

The Force That Keeps a Zeppelin Up

It Is Due to the Difference in Density of the Air and the Hydrogen in the Balloon—The Air Makes Us All Weigh Less Than We Would if There Were No Atmosphere

By Garrett P. Serviss

PLEASE explain whether the lifting capacity of a Zeppelin in this mainly decreases as it ascends from the earth. If it does, is it due to the increased buoyancy of the air or to the decreased pull of the force of gravitation? When we say that a Zeppelin can carry, or lift, thirty tons, does that mean that the weight of the airship is thirty tons lighter than the volume of air that it displaces?

YES, the "lifting capacity" is measured by the difference between the weight of the balloon and the weight of a volume of air equal to the volume of the balloon. The air presses upward upon all bodies immersed in it, even when they are heavier than their air.

In the latter case they do not rise, like a balloon, but they lose a certain proportion of their weight. If the atmosphere were suddenly removed, everything on the earth would weigh more than it did before. The force of gravity would be unbalanced, but the buoyant action of the air would be gone.

This is easily proved by experiment. Take two bodies of unequal density, like wood and iron, and place them in the opposite scales of a balance. In order that the beam may rest horizontal it is necessary that the volume, or size, of the body having the lesser density shall be proportionately larger. Now, remove them, together with the balance, into a vacuum, and the beam will incline downward on the side of the larger body, because the air, which has been removed, pressed upward more on that body than on the smaller one.

But if you should fill the vacuum chamber with a gas heavier than air, the inclination of the beam would be reversed, because the relative upward pressure on the larger body would then be greater than on the smaller one, and to make them balance as they did in the air you would have to decrease the size of the larger body.

It is the air, then, that makes us all weigh less than we would if there were no atmosphere. The air makes us all weigh less than we would if there were no atmosphere.

But allowance must be made for the weight of the balloon, the ropes, the cage, and everything that it carries. If these together amounted to 72½ pounds, then the buoyancy of the thousand feet of hydrogen would only suffice to counterbalance their weight without lifting them from the ground. But by making the capacity of the gas bag 16,000 cubic feet the increase in weight would be inconceivable in comparison with the increase of buoyancy, which would now amount to 725 pounds. But to get the actual lifting power a considerable margin must always be allowed for change of temperature, humidity, etc., as well as for impurity of the hydrogen. Any mixture of other gas with it diminishes its buoyancy. The above estimates are probably twice too great.

Space must be left in the gas bag for the expansion of the hydrogen, as otherwise it would burst the bag as it ascended rapidly, or else be forced out at the bottom, and thus a portion would be lost.

The increase in the volume of the balloon through the expansion of the hydrogen tends, up to a certain point, to counterbalance the loss of buoyancy through the decrease of density in the surrounding air. But an elevation is always reached where the buoyant force ceases to carry the balloon higher because the volume of air displaced exactly equals in weight the total weight of the balloon with its appendages.

The same principle of buoyancy applies in the case of the immersion of a body in water. If the density, or specific gravity, of the body is greater than that of water, it will sink to the bottom; if it is less it will rise to the surface. But there is a great difference between air and water with regard to compressibility. Air near the earth's surface is very much denser than at a height of a mile or two, and the decrease of density continues with increase of height. But the density of water is very slightly increased with increase of depth. Consequently a heavy body will never stop sinking if once it goes under, but will descend to the bottom.

People are still asking, as many letters receive, show, whether the Titanic and the Lusitania may not be suspended somewhere between the surface and the bottom of the sea. That is impossible. They lie on the sea-bed.

The Short-Hand Girls Will Swear It's True as Preaching--That Stenographers Make Best Wives.

But Girls Who Are NOT Stenographers Will Say That It's "HORRID" and They Won't Let Tom, Dick and Harry Read It in Tomorrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN--Not if They Can Help It.

A lot of trouble may be kicked up by the Boston Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow. No end of sweet and marriageable girls, who hope and expect to get husbands--although they would rather die than admit it--may be made perfectly furious or discouraged.

Because the point is raised that stenographers make unusually good wives and mothers. Some say they make the best.

The Stenographer Girl explains matters. She says some mighty interesting things. Read a sample:

"We stenographers get to know men--their weak points and their strong points. We can classify the different types of men as to character and habits; and when the right man comes along, if Cupid is an ally, well, we're pretty sure he's the 'only man on earth.'"

Having said which, the Stenographer Girl goes on to tell what a superior wife and mother she generally makes. She has several reasons and there's a "punch," as they say, in every reason.

It makes clever reading and it will appear in the Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow.

That "Stenographer Girl" feature was put at the top of this story because there are so many stenographers in Greater Boston and New England and there are so many girls who are not stenographers and--well, there are not as many men as there might be.

Anything about "best wives" attracts the men and anything that attracts the men interests the girls, so there you are.

There was a man who was "down and out." This has nothing to do with the stenographer article. It is "another story," as Rudyard Kipling is so fond of saying.

The "down and out" fell on a lawn. A man turned a hose on him. A little girl sang by an open window. A two-bit piece was given in charity and the tramp passed on.

Seven years later the tramp came back--in an automobile. It is like a fairy story, this tale of a modern Good Samaritan. It is a delightful story, nice to read in the joyous Springtime. It "leaves a good taste in the mouth," as the expression goes. It is a feature story in the Magazine Section of tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN, filling a whole page, with pictures in color.

Have you seen any "knee posies"?

Sounds catchy, doesn't it? Without going into any extended description of them, one might say that Lady Duff-Gordon says, in the course of her fashion page:

"The skirts are such now that a little gust of wind very easily shows this 'knee-posy.'"

Interesting subjects, fashions! Lady Duff-Gordon has considerable to say tomorrow about hats, with illustrations. Models of new Spring hats are shown, with apt discussion, such as makes Lucile's writings so helpful to womankind.

Remember the Bollinger Baby, the poor little Chicago defective, and the controversy over whether he should have lived, or possibly died?

His Grace, the Duke of Manchester, has written a vigorous article on "The False Economy of Saving the Weak and Worthless." The Duke, whose visit to Boston a few months ago interested the public generally, uncovers some dual views with considerable "pop." You may agree with him and you may not, but, if you begin his article, you will finish it.

Two women of international fame in whom Boston is always interested are Helen Keller and Maude Adams.

One is the wonderful mute, the other the wonderful actress, one so deprived, the other so gifted.

It happens that the Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow will have a particularly interesting discussion of Miss Keller and an equally interesting story about Miss Adams.

Caruso sang to Helen Keller. She put her sensitive finger tips to the tenor's lips and said "heard" the song. Did she really hear it? Scientists find subject of argument on that point.

"The Real Maude Adams," is the title of the story about the celebrated actress. It contains intimate details of the life of the stage star.

Have you ever met our well-known Navy? This is Navy Day at the Charlestown Yard. The public is enjoying a perfect circus of entertainment there. The program runs from cabaret to submarines submerging, from big gun displays to "jack-at-bat" on the ball field. Tomorrow the Sunday AMERICAN will tell all that was seen and done, with photographs illustrating the chief things of interest.

The Carpenter divorce trial, although staged at Concord, N. H., is a contest between Boston persons--persons of note, too. Boston is following the trial eagerly. The Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow will have a special and exclusive article on this celebrated case.

If the readers from Cambridge, Waltham and Somerville will step up a little closer, just for a moment, the management would like to announce for their special benefit that tomorrow's AMERICAN will interest THEM PARTICULARLY--special news articles concerning those communities, neighborhood stories and so on.

The paper will have something to say, by the way, that everyone will wish to read with respect to an automobile or otherwise uses the amazing highways of this cultivated community.

The Beauty

By William F. Kirk

THE Beauty was a beauty rare,
With great blue eyes and tawny hair;
Her presence seemed to fill the air
With dreams of June.
Her rich complexion, sweet with flowers,
(Her comrades through the lonely hours)
Was beautiful as Eden's bowers
And bright as noon.

She saw a mother on the street
Wheeling a baby through the sleet--
A little baby, round and sweet,
The mother's head,
Though unadorned with jewels rare,
Showered the watcher brooding there
A ring too dear for HER to wear--
A plain gold band.
